Introduction. There is a brief recap on last week's session and the group are asked about any other literacy work they may have done between sessions. The aims and objectives of the session are covered and the group are asked what they would say as a 'Supercar'. 	When the group is familiar with the cars, they are then given scenarios to work on in pairs. The term 'scenario' is explained and the group then has to look at which car they would use for each of the scenarios, writing a sentence for each to say why. The answers that the group has formulated are discussed within the group and there is a recap on alphabetical order - the group are asked where they would use alphabetical systems. When the group has discussed this, there is an exercise with a worksheet where they have to place the names of the 'Supercars' into alphabetical order. When the group has completed this, they look at some cards which describe prepositions and there is then a worksheet on this, where they can attempt to construct some sentences around this subject.	The group may need to be helped with spellings and sentence formulation. The group can be prompted for some of the answers. The group are assisted with any of the answers they have problems with. The group are encouraged to construct sentences, paying particular attention to prepositions. E.g. My car is in the garage. The Lotus was parked behind a tree. The mechanic looked under the car.			The scenario cards (see pages 6-7) and writing paper/ pens to record the answers. Whiteboard. Supercar name cards laminates (page 9) and also the handout on alphabetical order (page 10). Prepositions cards and also worksheets on prepositions. (Not provided in this resource but see http://www.skillsworkshop.org/esol/e1e2prepositionexercises.pdf for possible exercises (these could be adapted for Supercars)

Introduction There is a recap on the previous week's session and the aims and objectives are covered. There is also housekeeping if there are any new members of the group. There is an exercise where the group are given some pictures of cars and have to describe them to the other members of the group without actually saying what they are. There is then some work on adjectives - the group are given a bag with items in - they pick one of the items and are encouraged to think about how they might be able to describe the item.		Differentiated Activity (1) The tutor can prompt any learners who may find it difficult to find ways to describe the pictures. The group are encouraged to think about all of the different ways they could describe the items - colour, age, materials etc.	Differentiated Activity (2)	Differentiated Activity (3)	Laminated car pictures with some prompts for descriptions of them (see page 5) Bag with selection of small objects.

When the group have completed this work, we look at the terms 'adjective' and 'noun' - these are described and then the group are given the 'Supercars' pictures and the tables to complete. The table involves completing some descriptions of the 'Supercars'. There is then some more word level work, looking at how you can blend words by adding letter strings. The group can use letter tiles at first and there is then a handout for them to complete on C.V.C. blends. The final exercise within the session looks at the order of sentences. The group examine how a sentence often starts with the subject and how there is always an action or verb within the sentence. There is then a sentence building exercise using jumbled sentences about the 'supercars'. There is also a recap on basic sentence punctuation.	The group can be helped to look for the words that describe the cars - these are contained in a box at the bottom of the table if the group need them. For members of the group who find this work too basic, there is some further work on the handout that explores compound words - this concept is also explained to the group. If any of the group have problems placing the cut-up words into order, then they are reminded about a capital at the start, the subject and then some kind of action afterwards, with a full stop at the end.	Some of the students may need to be helped to find the matching pairs for the compound words - these are on the bottom of the same handout. When the group have completed the exercise, they can then write the sentences down or they can stick the sentences onto a sheet of paper.	'Supercars' cards (Page 5) and also tables (page 11) for the group to complete. Word-building handout (page 8) and whiteboard to illustrate the concept of compound words. Cut-up sentences about the 'Supercars' and also some paper and glue, as well as the whiteboard to show the concept of sentence order. *Sentences to cut up are not provided but can be created using the sentences from the cards on page 5.
