Words from Around the World

We are lucky in speaking and writing a language that is enormously rich in words. This means we have a huge pool of words to use in creative writing, poetry and everyday speech.

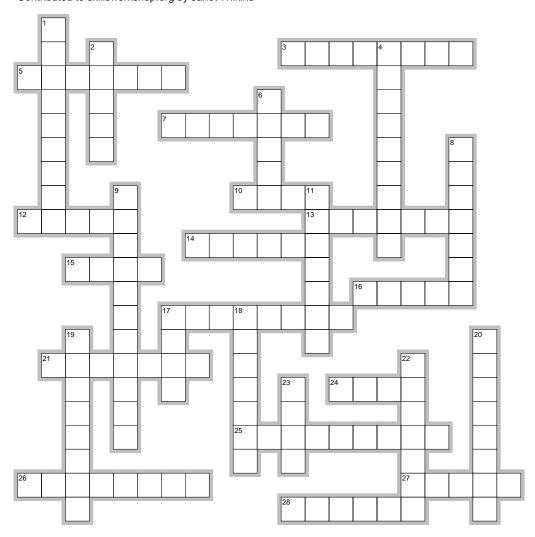

Many words came to us from overseas. They are part of our history and changing culture; words such as bungalow (Hindi) and siesta (Spanish) are well known. Another example is the term Bollywood, the centre of the Indian film industry, a combination of Bombay and Hollywood.

Try the crossword puzzle and see if you can identify all the words which came to us from other countries.
