

CONJUNCTIONS

What are conjunctions?

Conjunctions are joining words.
For example: and, because, so, if, although.

You can use a conjunction to join two short sentences together to make a longer sentence.

Examples:

1. I had to take my dog to the vet. He had hurt his leg.

Use a conjunction to join the two sentences

I had to take my dog to the vet because he had hurt his leg.

2. I wanted a good seat at the rugby match. I booked in advance.

Use a conjunction to join the two sentences

I wanted a good seat at the rugby match so I booked in advance.

3. It was pouring with rain. I was hanging out the washing.

Use a conjunction to join the two sentences

It was pouring with rain while I was hanging out the washing.

CONJUNCTIONS

Complete each sentence with a joining word.

because so and
as although but since

1. I went to the hospital _____ I hurt my leg.
2. The woman ate the cake _____ she was on a diet.
3. Make sure you are at the bus stop on time _____ you don't miss the bus.
4. The man went to the bank _____ he didn't want to be short of money.
5. Leeds Rhinos are a good team _____ I prefer St. Helens.
6. We went on holiday to Turkey _____ it was a good choice.
7. My mum asked me to get some bread from the shop _____ I was going anyway.